Wells, Seth Young. __Millennial Praises, containing a Collection of Gospel Hymns, In Four Parts: Adapted to the Day of Christ's Second Appearing. Composed for the Use of His People__. Hancock, MA: Josiah Tallcott, Jr.. 1813. Full leather. viii, 288, 4pp. Near Fine. 18mo, tan calf, blue speckled edges. A remarkably clean and sharp copy of the first complete 4-part edition; binding is very strong with no cracking or splitting; some light rubbing to extremities and a few scratches to the boards, front board bowed; interior contents appear unused and unsoiled though with typical age-toning. The book-craft is the work of an inspired amateur operating as the independent press of the Shakers, though by no means rudimentary. As in other copies of this printing, there are holes in the gutter from misfired stitching; typical also are varying boldness of type, a sudden shift to smaller font at tail of Contents, some wobbly and offset type, and visible thread cast over endpapers. Also contains two errata notes at the tail of the final index page, assumably post-printing, pre-binding corrections.

The Millennial Praises represents the fruition of a decade of songs proliferating new communities in Ohio and Kentucky streaming to the central Shaker community in New Lebanon, NY. Commissioned by other elders, "Elder Brother Seth" compiled an authoritative version with corrected grammar and spelling and commissioned the publication to be disseminated through all Shaker communities for a time "limited to the period of their usefulness: for no gift or order of God can be binding on Believers for a longer term of time than it can be profitable to their travel in the gospel" (Preface). His original 2-part 1812 printing was greatly expanded and re-published 1813 with 2 additional parts. The unique form of the songs, set in verse without notation, bears witness to a vibrant religious life centered around distinctive beliefs, notably "Mother" Ann Lee (the incarnation of God's feminine spirit), celibacy, temperance, imminent millennial expectation, and the community of goods.
